- Half-day snowshoe in the Rockies close to Denver
This is a quick-and-easy adventure. In four hours you get to see incredible views of downtown and the mountains, while snowshoeing (or hiking if there is not enough snow) in beautiful, natural surroundings with pine trees, crisp air, and occasional wildlife at around 8,000 ft. The cost is $99 per person, and includes transportation, guide, snowshoes, two and a half hours of guided snowshoeing, a snack, and energy drink/water.
- Full-day hike or snowshoe in the Rocky Mountain National Park
This is an action-packed day with a drive through Boulder, Colorado, a visit to Estes Park (mountain town at 9,000 ft), a drive through the Rocky Mountain National Park, plenty of elk viewing, lunch, and a three- to four-hour snowshoeing or hiking excursion in the park. The cost is $249 per person including park entrance fees.
- Full day of skiing in Breckenridge or Vail, Colorado
Five to six hours of skiing. The company arranges for lift tickets (valued at $90 each), ski rentals, transportation, guided skiing, and a free ski lesson (if desired). The cost is $329 per person.

Discounts are available for groups larger than four people.
